

“Bob Nickas’s Bridgehampton Biennial”, Viceland Today, July 8, 2011

BOB NICKAS’S BRIDGEHAMPTON BIENNIAL

Our favorite art-picker-outer, Bob Nickas, has organized a show in Bridgehampton, NY, called the 2011 Bridgehampton Biennial. The show opens this afternoon at Martos gallery's summer space, which just happens to be a farmhouse built in 1860.

We know what you're thinking. Ooohhh, the Hamptons, should I bring my caviar? And, Ooohhh, a biennial, should I bring my monocle? No and no. Actually, this isn't even a biennial, Bob just threw that in the name to make fun of artsy fartsy types and their dumb art fairs.

Bob's biennial will only be up through September 5th and will feature work from all of the fine people listed in the flyer at the top of this post. A lot of the artists' work has been made specifically for the farmhouse—Aaron Suggs even made a goddamn sailboat for the pool.

So it's settled. We'll see you at the farmhouse. Full info here. The Bridgehampton Biennial 112 Sagaponack Rd. Bridgehampton, NY 2 - 8 PM Friday, July 8, 2011 at 6:48 pm VICE US

<http://www.viceland.com/blogs/en/2011/07/08/bob-nickass-bridgehampton-biennial/>